PASSION SINCE 1720

The Krieger family from Idar-Oberstein has been involved with trading and processing gemstones for almost three centuries. By Axel Henselder

Today the Hans D. Krieger company is a specialist in diamond jewellery. "A passion for beautiful and rare stones and a love of timeless elegant forms have defined our work for four generations," says Managing Director Hans D. Krieger. "We fully support the creation of items of jewellery across all stages of the process under one roof," adds his son, Andreas. From the purchasing of raw diamonds in natural colours to the various different cuts, from the first draft design to the completion of the item of jewellery – the entire value creation process takes place within the company. The result is solid and perfect craftsmanship in a timeless elegant design, combining the most exquisite materials.

NATURAL COLOURED DIAMONDS

The processing of natural coloured diamonds is typical of the Hans D. Krieger style. As Hans D. Krieger explains: "Every gemstone is unique. Rare coloured diamonds develop according to a natural process over millions of years, deep within the Earth. Liberating them from their raw form to unfold their true spirit has been a passion of our family for generations."

TIMELESS AND ELEGANT DESIGN

The Krieger team develops unique items and exclusive small series with its passion for well proportioned and perfectly processed items of jewellery. These are classic modern pieces, which seem devoid of any trace of time. Hans D. Krieger jewellery awakens a yearning in people to own something special and pass it down over the generations.
